Santa Barbara's Theatre Magnificent

Unique among the great theatres of the world is the new Fox Arlington theatre—a high vaulted hall of mighty depth and towering span; of lavish magnificence and bewildering beauty—but—a hall possessed of that peculiar quality best described as individual in Character and Charm.

Eternal in its perpetuation of the colorful romance of early California Spanish Days—faithful in its contributing influence to the artistry of a City sheltered in hope and a State bounded in faith, the Fox Arlington theatre typifies the courage of those courageous folk of an earlier day.
